

We Claim:

1. A method of analyzing an electronic text document using a knowledge bank, said knowledge bank being formed of a plurality of lexicons, said method comprising the steps of:
  - defining for each of said lexicons an associated subject header;
  - defining a list of word terms having a logical relationship with said subject header; and
  - analyzing said electronic documents using said plurality of lexicons.